We see really hard workers, BUT,,,

- We see Covid masks (presumably), being made in some unknown country.
- We see the flag hanging in the corner as the flag of India but are not sure of the significance of this data.
- We hear that the language is clearly Indian English accent.
- We see the date of production as February 2, 2020.
- We see seven unmasked people in a small room maybe 15 feet by 10 feet (guessing), in unsanitary conditions, with bare hands and feet and the floor, all in contact with these new masks.
- We see the use of scissors to cut and to poke holes in the mask presumably. Not really sure what that scissor poking job is for.
- We wonder what the cloth is they are using and guess that it is not HEPA cloth.
- We see child labour.
- We see no girls.

We see that some countries have standards that are not quite what we might expect here in our country. However, some counterfeiters from China would likely rival these seven people shown here in this video. Ah, ALLEGEDLY, we are just saying allegedly as we have no real proof of conditions in China right, but we know they steal most everything and encourage counterfeiters too so, they are fair game for criticism. We do keep in mind the extreme population in the country we are guessing at, and that some sort of mask is better than no mask at all, but....

Did somebody once say “Buyer Beware?”

And so, “Who are these people.”

Ah, the Entrepreneurial spirit lives on.

Where can we find a bunch of kids here to get working on this business model??? LOL Don't send in cards and letters now, just kidding. Kidding, get it, punny? Kids.! Okay move on.
